THE ACTING JUDGES ACT, 1867.

ACT XVI OF 1867.

RECEIVED THE G G'S ASSENT ON THE 1ST MARCH, 1867.

An Act to amend the making of acting appointments to certain judicial offices.

WHEREAS the Governor General of India in Council or the Local Government as the case may be, is empowered by divers enactments to appoint the Judges of certain Courts in British India; and whereas it has been doubted whether he or it is empowered to appoint persons to act temporarily as such Judges and it is expedient to remove such doubts, it is hereby enacted as follows:—

1 In every case in which the Governor General of India in Council, or the Local Government, as the case may be, has power under any act or Regulation to appoint a Judge of any Court in British India, such power shall be taken to include the power to appoint any person capable of being appointed a permanent Judge of such Court, to act as Judge of the same Court for such time as the Governor General of India in Council or the Local Government, as the case may be, shall direct.

Every person so appointed to act temporarily as a Judge of any such Court shall have the powers and perform the duties which he would have had and been liable to perform in case he had been duly appointed a permanent Judge of the same Court.

2 Every such Act and Regulation shall be construed as if it contained a special clause to the purport or effect of the first section of this Act.

THE ADMINISTRATOR-GENERAL'S ACT, 1913

ACT NO III OF 1913

RECEIVED THE G G'S ASSENT ON THE 27TH FEBRUARY, 1913

An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to the office and duties of Administrator General.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the office and duties of Administrator General, It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PART I

PRELIMINARY

Short title, extent and commencement

1. (1) This Act may be called the Administrator General's Act, 1913.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including the Sonthal and British Baluchistan, and applies also to all British and Indian His Majesty in the territories of Native States in India.

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, direct

Notes — The office of the Administrator General in this country grew out of the Mercantile and Trading Company in Bengal, whose interests were safeguarded by the charter establishing the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal dated the 26th March 1774. Its functions have been developed and regulated on lines which experience has shown to be necessary, and it is an illustration of the adoption and modification to suit local circumstances, of those principles which underlie the law of trusts, and the law affecting the administration of the estates of the deceased persons — Vide Kennys Administration Practice By Stat 39 and 40 Geo II C 79 Ecclesiastical Registrars were appointed to take charge of deceased's property where the deceased had no next of kin. The first Administrator General was appointed by Act VII of 1849.

Local Extent — Act II of 1874 was in force in Sonthal Parganas, in the Arakan Hill District in British Baluchistan, in Angul and in the Khond mals.

Letters of Administration—The term includes letters of administration whether with the Will annexed or without it. It also includes letters of administration limited in time or otherwise. Limited grants are dealt with in Chapter II of Part IX of the Succession Act 39 of 1925.

Next of kin—According to English Law when used simpliciter, it means blood

Milne v Gilbert, 5 D M & G 510, Collingood v Page 1 Ventr 424, Brown v Wood Allyn, 36 In England relations by marriage are not included. Nichols v Savage, 18 Ves 53, Garrick v Camden 14 Ves 372, Watt v Watt 3 Ves 244, Bailey v Kin Wright, 18 Ves 49. But in India the law is otherwise. It includes both husband and wife. In sections 55 and 56 of the Indian Succession Act, the words "next of kin" and "relatives" are synonymous, and are collective names for the persons mentioned in Part I and Part II of Schedule II. Hyribai v Burjori, 22 B 909.

Official Gazette—According to clause ( ) 'Government' means the Governor General in Council so far as the Act relates to the Presidency of Bengal. Similarly the official gazette means the Gazette of India in the case of the Presidency of Bengal. This difference is owing to the fact that the Presidency of Bengal includes the territories for the time being under the government of the Governor of Fort William in Council the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh the Provinces of Punjab Burma Bihar and Orissa the Frontier Province the Province of Nicobar Islands and such of the territories in Council may by notification clause 9(a)]

PART II

THE OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATOR GENERAL

Appointment and designation of the Administrators General in the three Presidencies

3 (1) In each of the Presidencies of Bengal Madras and Bombay the Government shall appoint an Administrator General

(2) No person shall be appointed to the office of Administrator General of any of the said Presidencies who is not—

- (a) a Barrister, or
- (b) an Advocate Attorney or Vakil enrolled by a High Court, or
- (c) a person holding the office of Deputy Administrator General at the commencement of this Act

(3) The said Administrators General shall be called respectively the Administrator General of Bengal the Administrator General of Madras and the Administrator General of Bombay

ment of India so far as
For the meaning
The word 'Govern
Madras and Bombay

clause 9 (b) and for the meaning of the term 'Presidency of Madras' vide section 2, clause 9 (c) Under Act II of 1874 only members of the Bar of England or Ireland or of the Faculty of Advocates in Scotland could be appointed an Administrator General. Vide section 6 of Act II of 1874

4 The Government may appoint a Deputy or Deputies to assist the Administrator General, and any Deputy so appointed shall be subject to the control of the Government and the general or special orders of the Administrator General, be competent to discharge any of the duties and to exercise any of the powers of the Administrator General and when discharging such duties or exercising such powers shall have the same privileges and be subject to the same liabilities as the Administrator General

Notes—By this section provision is made for the appointment of deputy Administrator General. Powers to be exercised by the deputy Administrator General are also mentioned in this section. There was no such provision in Act II of 1874.

Grants whether limited or unlimited—Grants of Letters of Administration to an Administrator General must be limited to the particular province in which they are granted. Per Garth C J in In the goods of Howson 4 C 770. But in the same case Wile J held that the form of grant of letters of administration to the Administrator General should be general and unlimited.

5 The Administrator General shall be a corporation sole by the name of the Administrator General of the Presidency of Bengal, Madras or Bombay, which he shall have in his official seal and to sue and be sued in his corporate name.

Corporation sole—Corporations are usually classified under two heads, viz., corporation sole and corporation aggregate. As a corporation according to Lord Coke is 'invisible and immortal it has no soul, neither is it subject to the laws of nature.' The rights of a corporation are its intangible legal persons the following leading of foundation—Vide

PART III.

RIGHTS, POWERS, DUTIES AND FACILITIES OF THE ADMINISTRATOR GENERAL

(a) Grants of Letters of Administration and Probate

6 So far as regards the Administrator General of any presidency, the High Court at the presidency town shall be deemed to be a Court of Competent jurisdiction for the purpose of granting probate or letters of administration under any law for the time being in force wheresoever within the presidency the estate to be administered is situate

Jurisdiction of High Court—The Court has jurisdiction to grant probate or letters of administration to the estate of the deceased if he left property within the jurisdiction of the Court or if the deceased had a fixed place of abode within its jurisdiction. Kamoni v Hurro 8 C 570, Jurdunji v Nivaji 17 B 689, Re Lornmouth 24 M 120, Go int v Anant 19 N L R 54, Bhanrao v Lakshimbai, 20 B 607, 11 jiv Vishnu 9 B 241, In the goods of Mohendra Narain 5 C W N 377, 1 in 1 idur v Mohirnee 4 C L R 495, Golum v Saboo 20 W R 286, In the goods of Prodel L. R. 11 F & D 454, In re Santaye 3 P D 42. But in the case of Administrator General the High Court at the presidency town has such a jurisdiction irrespective of the fixed place of abode of the deceased or the situation of his properties. So far as the Administrator General of Bengal is concerned such application may be made to the High Court of Calcutta. Vide also 1 B L R O C 3

7. Any letters of administration, which are granted after the commencement of this Act by the High Court at any place, unless granted to next of kin

Letters of administration granted by High Court—Sections 218 and 219 of the Succession Act 39 of 1925 lay down that letters of administration may be granted even to a creditor in the absence of the next of kin. But this section lays down that when such grant is made by a High Court at any presidency town it shall be granted to the Administrator General in preference to a creditor. So far as the estate of an illegitimate person is concerned the Administrator General is entitled to letters of administration. De Mellow v Broughton 11 B L R App 6, In the goods of Simpson 1 M H C R 171, vide notification No 2189 dated 31st March, 1873 11 B L R 7 note

Next of kin—Next of kin in this section means the nearest of kin absolutely, not nearest of kin in India—Per Norman J in In the goods of Smallwood 20th July 1868 where a brother the nearest of kin in India was held not to be entitled in priority to the Administrator General there being a father and mother alive in England—Vide Henderson's Testamentary Succession p 420. He is entitled in preference to pecuniary legatee. 11 re Veigis 1 B H C R 103

8 The Administrator General of the presidency shall be deemed by all the Courts in the presidency to have a right to letters of administration other than letters pendente lite in preference to that of—

(a) a creditor, or

- (d) a legatee other than an universal legatee, or
(e) a friend of the deceased

Scope—By section 7 the Court is required to grant letters of administration to the Administrator General if no person appears entitled as next of kin and where such grant is made by the High Court at any Presidency town. So far as other places are concerned the Administrator General of the Presidency is a preferential right to obtain letters of administration over a creditor or a legatee other than an universal legatee or a friend of the deceased. The difference between this section and section 7 appears to be that under section 7 the grant must be made to the Administrator General where there is no next of kin whereas under this section it is optional with the Administrator General to exercise his rights or not. These two sections qualify the law laid down in sections 218, 219 and 234 of the Indian Succession Act, 39 of 1925.

9 If any person not being an exempted person has died leaving within any Presidency assets exceeding the value of "two thousand" rupees and if no person to whom any Court would have jurisdiction to commit administration of such assets has within one month after his death, applied in such presidency for probate of his will or for letters of administration of his estate, the Administrator General of the presidency in which such assets are, shall, subject to any rules made by the Government, within a reasonable time after he has had notice of the death of such person, and of his having left such assets take such proceedings as may be necessary to obtain from the High Court at the presidency town letters of administration of the estate of such person.

Provided that, the Court on the application of the Administrator General may refuse to grant letters of administration if the Court is satisfied that the grant of such letters is unnecessary for the purpose of making such order as the Court may think fit.

It requires that the Court shall be satisfied that the danger is to be apprehended of the misappropriation of such assets unless letters of administration of the effects of the deceased are granted.  any person appears and establishes his claim—

(a) to probate of the will of the deceased

the Court shall grant probate of the will or letters of administration accordingly, and shall award to the administrator General the costs of any proceeding taken by him, under those sections to the paid out of the estate as part of the testamentary or intestate expenses thereof

Notes—Sections 12 and 13 are explained by Mr Sen as applying only to cases where a person comes forward and unexpectedly propounds a Will. I think there is no reason in sections 12 and 13 which requires a condition of unexpectedness at all. Per Rankin J in In the Goods of Pashupati Mukherjee, 24 C W N 376 at p 328, see also 26 Ind Cas 793

Administrator-General not precluded from applying for letters within one month after death of one month from the death of the deceased

Notes—Under section 9 the Administrator General is bound to apply for probate or letters of administration after a period of one month if the deceased be not an exempted person and if he dies leaving within any Presidency town assets exceeding the value of one thousand rupees. But that section does not preclude the Administrator General from applying to the Court for a grant within the period of one month

Power to transfer—The right to devolve the property of a deceased testator, with all powers and duties relating to the management and administration which is conferred by s 31 of Act II of 1874 (=this section) is not confined to any particular class of executors or of estates. It is given in broad and comprehensive terms to any and every testamentary executor in whom the estates of the deceased testator have been legally vested by virtue of the probate—provided only that no transfer shall be made to the Administrator General without his consent. Section 31 of Act II of 1874 is a re-enactment of s 30 of Act XXIV of 1867. At the time when the prior Act was passed the executor of a Hindu testator was not a person entitled to transfer under the Act. But by the time when the latter Act was passed he became a person entitled so to act, by virtue of the provisions of the Hindu Wills Act 1870. So a Hindu testator now may effect a valid transfer of the estate under this section. A G v Premji, 2 C 788 P C, see also 22 B 1.

REGULATION XI OF 1825

PASSED ON THE 26TH MAY, 1825

A Regulation for declaring the rules to be observed in determining claims to lands gained by alluvion or by dereliction of a river or the sea

1 In consequence of the frequent changes which take place in the channel of the principal rivers that intersect the Provinces immediately subject to the Presidency of Fort

William, and the shifting of the sands which lie in the beds of those rivers, churs or small islands are often thrown up by alluvion in the midst of the stream, or near one of the banks and large portions of land are carried away by an encroachment of the river on one side whilst accessions of land are at the same time or in subsequent years gained by dereliction of the water on the opposite side similar instances of alluvion, encroachment and dereliction also sometimes occur on the sea coast which borders the southern and south eastern limits of Bengal

The lands gained from the rivers or sea by the means abovementioned are a frequent source of contention and strife and, although the law and custom of the country have established rules applicable to such cases these rules not being generally known, the Courts of Justice have sometimes found it difficult and in Assam except the North Lichai Hills

It is supplemented (in the former Province of Bengal) by Ben Act 4 of 1864, in Bengal by Ben Act 5 of 1900

2 Whenever any clear and definite usage of shikast fatwa respecting the disjunction and junction of land by the encroachment or recess of a river may have been immemorially established, for determining the rights of the proprietors of two or more contiguous estates divided by a river (such as that the main channel of the river dividing the estates shall be the constant boundary between them whatever changes may take place in the course of the river by encroachment on one side and accession on the other) the usage so established shall govern the decision of all claims and disputes relative to alluvial land between the parties whose estates may be liable to such usage

3 Where there may be no local usage of the nature referred to in the preceding section, the general rules declared in the following section shall be applied to the determination of all claims and disputes relative to lands gained by alluvion or by dereliction either of a river or the sea

4 First—When land may be gained by gradual accession, whether from the recess of a river or of the sea, it shall be considered an increment to the tenure of the person to whose land or estate it is thus annexed, whether such land or estate be held immediately from Government by a Zamindar or other superior landholder, or as a subordinate tenure, by any description of under tenant whatever

Provided that the increment of land thus obtained shall not entitle the person in possession of the estate or tenure to which the land may be annexed, to a right of property or permanent interest therein beyond that possessed by him in the estate or tenure to which the land may be annexed, and shall not in any case be understood to exempt the holder of it from the payment to Government of any assessment for the public revenue to which it may be liable under the provisions of Regulation II, 1819,* or of any other Regulation in force

Nor if annexed to a subordinate tenure held under a superior landholder shall the under tenant, whether a khudkast riyat holding a murusi istimari tenure at a fixed rate of rent per bigha, or any other description of under tenant liable by his engagements or by established usage, to an increase of rent for the land annexed to his tenure by alluvion he considered exempt from the payment of any increase of rent to which he may be justly liable *

Second—The above rule shall not be considered applicable to cases in which a river by a sudden change of its course, may break through and intersect an estate, without any gradual encroachment, or may by the violence of stream, separate a considerable piece of land from one estate, and join it to another estate without destroying the identity and preventing the recognition of the land so removed

In such cases the land, on being clearly recognized shall remain the property of its original owner †

Third—When a char, or island, may be thrown up in a large navigable river (the bed of which is not the property of an individual), or in the sea, and the channel of the river, or sea between such island and the shore may not be fordable, it shall, according to established usage, be at the disposal of Government ‡

But if the channel between such island and the shore be fordable at any season of the year, it shall be considered an access to the land, tenure or tenures, of the person or persons whose estate or estates may be most contiguous to it, subject to the several provisions specified in the first clause of this section, with respect to increment of land by gradual accession

Fourth—In small and shallow rivers the beds of which, with the jalkar right of fishery, may have been heretofore recognized as the property of individuals any sand bank or char, that may be thrown up shall, as hitherto belong to the proprietor of the bed of the river, subject to the provisions stated in the first clause of the present section

Fifth—In all other cases namely in all cases of claims and disputes respecting land gained by alluvion or by dereliction of a river, or the sea, which are not specifically provided for by this Regulation, if evidence they may be able to obtain applicable to the case, or if not, by general principles of equity and justice

5 Nothing in this Regulation shall be construed to justify any encroachments by individuals on the bed or channels of navigable rivers or to prevent Zila † Magistrates or any other officers of Government who may be duly empowered for that purpose, from removing obstacles which appear to interfere with the safe and customary navigation of such rivers or which shall in any respect obstruct the passage of boats by track ing on the banks of such rivers or otherwise

An Act to amend the Law relating to Arbitration.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to arbitration by agreement without the intervention of a Court of Justice, It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title, extent and commencement 1 (1) This Act may be called the Indian Arbitration Act, 1899

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, and

(3) It shall come into force on the first day of July, 1899

Notes—The Indian Arbitration Act 1899 is based on the English Arbitration Act, 1889 (5 & 53 Vict Cap 49). Many sections are taken verbatim from that Act. As regards the application of the Act, vide s 2. Before the passing of the Arbitration Act a contract to refer matters to Arbitration was governed by the Indian Contract Act, the Civil Procedure Code and the Specific Relief Act (I of 1877). So far as the provisions contained in the Indian Contract Act and the Specific Relief Act are concerned no contract to refer (present or future differences) to arbitration could be specifically enforced. But the party who refuses to perform is debarred from bringing a suit on the same subject. The Civil Procedure Code of 1882 required that the arbitrators should be named. This Act is an independent Act 76 Ind Cas 523, 50 Ind Cas 411. The strict rule of Evidence need not be observed in an arbitration proceeding 49 Ind Cas 135. The parties may by common consent increase the number of arbitrators 62 Ind Cas 426=43 A 456. The Arbitration Act is an Act to amend the law relating to arbitration. (a) where a submission provides that the reference shall be to a single arbitrator, and all the parties do not, after differences have arisen, that it was intended that the vacancy should not be supplied, and the parties do not supply the vacancy,

THE BANKERS' BOOKS EVIDENCE ACT, 1891

ACT. NO XVIII OF 1891.

(Received His Excellency's Assent on the 1st October, 1891).

An Act to amend the Law of Evidence with respect to Bankers' Books.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Law of Evidence with respect to Bankers' Books, It is hereby enacted as follows —

Title and extent 1. (1) This Act may be called "The Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1891"

(2) It extends to the whole of British India*.

Notes—This Act is based on English Bankers Books Evidence Act 1879 (42 Vict c 11) The reason of its enactment is thus stated 'It is sometime since the Imperial Parliament recognised the great inconvenience which is caused to bankers from being required to produce their books in Courts of Justice In the first place, and weight and in the second place they are of the bank facilities were provided for by means of certified copies and in the year 1891 an Act was passed for British India upon the same lines"—Statement of Objects and Reasons of Act XII of 1900

Definitions

(1) "Company" means a company as defined in the Companies Act, 1862, and includes any company registered in any country by a Charter or Letters Patent

(2) "Bank" and "banker" mean—

(a) any company carrying on the business of bankers, and to whose books the provisions of this Act apply after provided, order office

(3) "bankers' books" include ledgers, day books, cash books, account books, and all other books used in the ordinary business of a bank

(4) "legal proceeding" means any proceeding or inquiry in which evidence is or may be given and includes an arbitration

(5) "the Court" means the person or persons before whom a legal proceeding is held or taken

(6) "Judge" means a Judge of a High Court

(7) "trial" means any hearing before the Court at which evidence is taken, and

(8) "certified copy" means a copy of any entry in the books of a bank, together with a certificate written at the foot of such copy that it is a true copy of such entry that such entry is contained in one of the ordinary books of the bank, and was made in the usual and ordinary course of business, and that such book is still in the custody of the bank, such certificate being

* Certain words after this repealed by Act X of 1914 have been omitted

† The definition of 'company' has been substituted for the original one by the Bankers' Books Evidence Act (XII of 1900) s 2

‡ To sub s (2) of s 2, cl (c) has been added by s 2 of the Bankers' Books Evidence Act (1 of 1893)

dated and subscribed by the principal accountant or manager of the bank with his name and official title

Company—This definition was added by Act XII of 1900. The original definition of Company was too narrow. It failed to provide for banking companies carrying on business in the country but registered or incorporated in the United Kingdom and in the case of Empress v. Patrick Mc Guire 4 C W N 433 (F B) it was discovered that the entries in the books of Delhi and London Bank could not be proved by copies. This definition does not include foreign banks unless they are included by notification issued under section 3—Vide Statement of Objects and Reasons to Act XII of 1900

Bank and Banker—In the English Act the definitions of Bank and Banker are thus given—"In this Act the expressions 'bank' and 'banker' mean any person, persons, partnership or company only made a return to the certified under the Act relate. As regards whether the Local Government is a Banker—Chand v. Boistab, 31 C 284=8 C W N 125

Bankers Books—The definition is taken from the English Act

Court—A Magistrate before whom criminal proceedings are pending is a Court. R v. Kinghorn, (1908) 2 K B 949. Vide s 9 of that Act. See also the definition of legal proceedings—vide s 10

Certified copy—Vide Chand v. Boistab 31 C 284=8 C W N 125

3 The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, extend the provisions of the Act to the books of any partnership or individual carrying on the business of bankers within the territories under its administration and keeping a set of not less than three ordinary account books, namely, a cash book, a day book or journal, and a ledger, and may in like manner, rescind any such notification

Notes—The Local Government may include all foreign banks under the Act by virtue of the power of notification given under this section

4. Subject to the provisions of the Act, a certified copy of any entry in a bankers' book shall in all legal proceedings be received as prima facie evidence of the existence of such entry, and shall be admitted as evidence of the matters, transactions, and accounts therein recorded in every case where, and to the same extent as, the original entry itself is now by law admissible but not further or otherwise

Notes—This section corresponds to sections 3, 4 and 5 of the English Act. Before certified copy of any bank is admissible in evidence, it must be proved that the bank is one to which the provisions of the Bankers Books Evidence Act apply. Unless that is proved certified copies of entries in their books ought not to be admitted in evidence. Empress v. Patrick Mc Guire 4 C W N 433 (F B). This section lays down that a certified copy of any entry in a bankers book shall be received as Prima facie evidence of the existence of any such entry. The term 'certified copy' is defined in clause (8) of section 2. According to that definition the required statement should be subscribed by the principal accountant or manager of the bank with his name and official title. But according to the English Act the proof of the required statement must be given by a partner or officer of the bank either orally or by an affidavit, sworn before any commissioner or person authorised to take affidavits (Vide ss 4 and 5 of Stat 42 Vict c 11). This section makes copies of such entries evidence against any one. Thus the entries in a defendant bankers books are made evidence against the plaintiff. Harding v. Williams 14 Ch D 197. See also Dwarka Das v. Sant Baksh 18 A 94. When before the Act a party had a right to issue a subpoena duces tecum to compel him to produce books he can now obtain an order under this section. He has nothing to do with the law of discovery to obtain inspection which cannot be obtained by Wood (1892) P 137, see however Perry v. Phosphor Bronze 71 L T 854 cited in Woodroffe's Evidence at p 996

Notes—The Local Government may include all foreign banks under the Act by virtue of the power of notification given under this section

4 Subject to the provisions of the Act, a certified copy of any entry in the bankers' book shall in all legal proceedings be received as prima facie evidence of the existence of such entry, and shall be admitted as evidence of the matters, transactions and accounts therein recorded in every case where and to the same extent as, the original entry itself is now by law admissible but not further or otherwise

Notes—This section corresponds to sections 3, 4 and 5 of the English Act. Before certified copy of any bank is admissible in evidence it must be proved that the bank is one to which the provisions of the Bankers' Books Evidence Act apply. Unless that is proved certified copies of entries in their books ought not to be admitted in evidence. Empress v. Patrick Mc Guire 4 C W N 433 (F B). This section lays down that a certified copy of any entry in a bankers' book shall be received as Prima facie evidence of the existence of any such entry. The term "certified copy" is defined in clause (8) of section 2. According to that definition the required statement should be subscribed by the principal accountant or manager of the bank with his name and official title. But according to the English Act the proof of the required statement must be given by a partner or officer of the bank either orally or by an affidavit, sworn before any commissioner or person authorised to take affidavits (Vide ss 4 and 5 of Stat 42 Vict c 11). This section makes copies of such entries evidence against any one. Thus the entries in a defendant's bankers' books are made evidence against the plaintiff. Harting v. Williams 14 Ch D 197. See also Dwarka Das v. Sant Baksh 18 A 94. When before the Act a party had a right to issue a subpoena duces tecum to compel bankers to produce their books he can now obtain an order under this section. Pe Marshfield 3 Ch D 498. This has nothing to do with the law of discovery and can not be utilised before trial to obtain inspection which cannot be obtained by means of discovery. *Pinnell v. ## 6 (1) On the application of any party to a legal proceeding, the Court or

Inspection of books by order a Judge may order that such party be at liberty

In Act to provide for the constitution of Bar Councils in British India and for other purposes

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the constitution and incorporation of Bar Councils for certain Courts in British India, to confer powers and impose duties on such Bar Councils and to consolidate and amend the law relating to legal practitioners entitled to practise in such Courts, It is hereby enacted as follows—

Bar Councils—This Act contemplates different Bar Councils. The reason of this is thus stated by the Bar Committee: From a practical point of view nothing is to be gained by setting up a central body which shall prescribe different qualifications for a body of the profession in the different provinces. A central body would necessarily lack adequate knowledge of local conditions and there are not wanting instances in which a provincial bar would not readily submit to being governed by a body which would necessarily contain a majority of members insufficiently acquainted with its special needs and difficulties.

Courts—The word 'Courts' is not defined in this Act. It means however the highest Courts.

ACT NO XXXVIII OF 1926

(PASSED BY THE INDIAN LEGISLATURE)

Received the assent of the Governor General on the 9th September, 1926)

An Act to provide for the constitution of Bar Councils in British India and for other purposes

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the constitution and incorporation of Bar Councils for certain Courts in British India, to confer powers and impose duties on such Bar Councils, and to consolidate and amend the law relating to legal practitioners entitled to practise in such Courts, It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Courts—The word "Courts" is not defined in this Act. It means however the highest Courts.

Short title, extent, application and commencement 1 (1) This Act may be called the Indian Bar Councils Act, 1926.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, and shall apply to the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, and at Madras Bombay, Allahabad, Patna and Rangoon and to such other High Courts within the Clauses Act, 1897* as the in the Gazette of India.

19 shall come into force at once; and the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India direct that the other provisions of this Act, or any provision thereof specified in the notification, shall come into force in respect of any High Court to which this Act applies on such date as he may by the notification appoint

High Courts.—In the first instance this Act applies to the High Courts of

According to Clause 24 of section 3 of the General Clauses Act the term 'High Court' shall mean the highest Civil Court of appeal in the part of British India in which the Act or Regulation containing the expression operates. The Lahore High Court has been purposely omitted as there is a Bar Council for Punjab already existing (Vide para 50 of the Bar Committees Report)

Commencement of the Act—So far as the six High Courts mentioned in para (2) are concerned sections 2, 17, 18 and 19 come into operation at once. As regards the remaining portion of the Act no notification has yet been published by the Governor General in Council.

Legal Practitioners cannot now be proceeded under inherent jurisdiction independently of the Act 125 Ind. Cas. 477

Interpretation 2 In this Act unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

- (a) 'Advocate' means an advocate entered in the roll of advocates of a High Court under the provisions of this Act
- (b) "Advocate General" includes where there is no Advocate General, the Government Advocate and where there is no Advocate General or Government Advocate, such officer as the Local Government may declare to be the Advocate General for the purposes of this Act,
- (c) "High Court" means a High Court to which this Act applies, and
- (d) "Prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act

Notes—These definitions are for the purposes of the Act. Unless there be any repugnancy in the subject or context these meanings are to be applied.

11 Clauses Act, a of the Faculty of means an advocate
Act

Advocate General—This definition is for the purpose of this Act and it should not be extended to other Acts.

Constitution of Bar Councils.

Constitution and incorporation of Bar Councils 3 (1) For every High Court a Bar Council shall be constituted in the manner herein after provided.

(2) Every Bar Council so constituted shall be a body corporate having perpetual succession and a common seal with power to acquire and hold property, both moveable and immoveable, and to contract and shall by the name of the Bar Council of the High Court for which it has been constituted sue and be sued.

Every High Court—A Council can be constituted for every High Court and not for every province.

Body Corporate—It is a corporation aggregate like a trade union and is created by this Act. Perpetual succession, a common seal and right to acquire and hold property are incidental to all corporations. A corporation aggregate says Lord Coke "is only an abstraction and rests only in intendment and consideration of law. It is invisible and immortal. It has no soul in it; either is it subject to the imbecilities of the body."

Composition of Bar Councils 4 (1) Every Bar Council shall consist of fifteen members, of whom—

- (a) one shall be the Advocate General,
- (b) four shall be persons nominated by the High Court of whom not more than two may be Judges of that Court, and
- (c) ten shall be elected by the advocates of the High Court from amongst their number.

(2) Of the elected members of every Bar Council not less than five be persons who have for not less than ten years practised in the High Court for which the Bar Council is constituted.

(3) Of the elected members of the Bar Councils to be constituted for the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal and at Bombay such proportion as the High Court may direct in each case shall be persons who have, for such minimum period as the High Court may determine, been entitled to practise in the High Court in the exercise of its original jurisdiction, and such number as may be fixed by the High Court out of the said proportion shall be barristers of England or Ireland or members of the Faculty of Advocates in Scotland.

(4) There shall be a Chairman and Vice Chairman of each Bar Council elected by the Council in such manner as may be prescribed :

Provided that the Advocates General of Bengal, Madras and Bombay shall be Chairman ex-officio, respectively, of the Bar Councils constituted for the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, at Madras and at Bombay

Sub Clause (b).—"We think it desirable to make clearly that Judges of the High Court may be represented on the Bar council, and have provided that two out of the four persons nominated by the Court may be Judges"—Report of the Select Committee

Composition of Bar Councils—The Council should consist of 15 members, four of whom should be nominated by the High Court, including where possible, the Advocate General or the Government Advocate and the Government Pleader. The remaining eleven, of whom six should be advocates of at least 10 years' standing should be elected by advocates of the High Court, provided that in Calcutta and Bombay the High Courts should determine how many of the eleven should be advocates entitled to practise on the original side. The nominated members should ordinarily be advocates, but it should be left to the High Courts to nominate Judges past and present. Statement of Objects and Reasons

Advocates General—We think it is essential in view of the status of the Advocates General in the Presidency towns that they should be made ex-officio Chairman of the Bar Councils to which they respectively belong. —Report of the Select Committee

5 (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in clause (c) of subsection (1) of section 4, the elected members of the first Bar Council constituted under this Act for any High Court shall be elected by and from amongst the advocates, vakils and pleaders who are on the date of the election entitled as of right to practise in the High Court

(2) The terms of office of the nominated and elected members of any such first Bar Council shall be three years from the date of the first meeting of the Council.

Advocates, vakils and pleaders etc—The attorneys are excluded from the operation of this Act as the majority supported the view that the attorneys should have a completely separate organisation. Vide Bar Committee's Report, paras 62 and 10

Tenure of Office—The life of the first Bar Council is three years from the date of the first meeting of the council and not from the date of election

Power to make rules regarding constitution and procedure of Bar Councils 6 (1) Rules, consistent with this Act, may be made to provide for following matters, namely —

(a) the manner in which elections of members of the Bar Council shall be held, the method of determining, in accordance with the provisions of sub-sections (2) and (3) of section 4, the candidates who shall be declared to have been elected, the manner in which the result of elections shall be published, and the manner in which and the authority by which doubts and disputes as to the validity of an election shall be finally decided,

(b) the terms of office of nominated and elected members of the Council;

(c) the filling of the casual vacancies in the Council,

(d) the " " and the quorum necessary

(e) the " " tive terms of office of the Chairman in cases where the Chairman is to be elected, and of the Vice Chairman, and

(f) any matter incidental or ancillary to any of the foregoing matters

(2) The first rules under this section shall be made by the High Court, but the Bar Council may thereafter, with the previous sanction of the High Court, add to, amend or rescind any rules so made

(3) No election of a member or members to the Council shall be called in question on the ground that due notice thereof has not been given to any person entitled to vote thereat, if notice of the date fixed for the election has, not less than thirty days before that date, been published in the local official Gazette of the province, or of each province, as the case may be, in which the High Court exercises jurisdiction

(4) Rules made under clause (d) of subsection (1) may provide for the retirement of members from office by rotation and for the manner in which the order of such retirement shall be determined

Notes.—The matters to be dealt with by rules made under this clause are we think, matters which should ordinarily be dealt with by the Bar Councils themselves. We have accordingly provided that the rules should be made only in the first instance by the High Court and thereafter by the Bar Council with the previous sanction of the High Court.—Report of the Select Committee Under this section provision is made that the first rules shall be made by the High Court thereafter changes can be made with the previous sanction of the High Court, in the way of amendment or addition by the Bar Councils themselves.—Vide Proceedings in Council

Power of Bar Councils to make bye laws 7 The Bar Council may make bye laws consistent with this Act and any rules made thereunder to provide for any of the following matters namely —

- (a) the appointment of such ministerial officers and servants as the Bar Council may deem necessary, and the pay and allowances and officers and servants, and committees of the Council the determination of the powers which may be delegated to such

Committees

Notes.—This section authorises the Bar Council which owes its origin to a Statute to make bye laws consistent with this Act and consistent with the rules made under this Act. These bye laws may deal with the appointment of ministerial officers and servants of the Bar Council as well as the appointment and constitution of committees. A bye law must relate to subjects within the scope of the corporate powers. It must not be ultra vires. In other words it must be confined to the limits of the subject matter handed over by the Legislature and dealt with by the subordinate authority and must not impose any restrictions not authorised by the language of the Statute. Aiyangar's Municipal Corporation Vol III p 411 A

(2) The High Court shall prepare and maintain a roll of advocates of the High Court in which shall be entered the names of—

(b) all other persons who have been admitted to be advocates of the High Court under this Act

(a) all such persons as are referred to in clause (a) of sub section (2) shall be entered first in the order in which they were respectively entitled to seniority inter se immediately before the date on which this section comes into force in respect of the High Court, and

(b) the seniority of any other person admitted to be an advocate of the High Court under this Act after that date shall be determined by the date of his admission, or if he is a barrister by the date of his admission or the date on which he was called to the Bar, whichever date is earlier

Provided that for the purposes of clause (b) the seniority of a person who before his admission to be an advocate was entitled as of right to practise in another High Court shall be determined by the date on which he became so entitled

Clause (2)—In accordance with the opinion expressed by several High Courts the preparation and maintenance of the roll of advocates is entrusted to the High Court instead of to the Bar Council. Provision has also been made for the maintenance of the roll by the High Court and for the maintenance of a copy of it by the Bar Council principally in order that the election roll of persons entitled to elect members to the Bar Council may be kept up to date. In order to enable this to be done the duty of furnishing a copy of the roll to the Bar Council and of communicating to it all alterations and additions as they are made is imposed upon the High Court—Report of the Select Committee

Qualifications and admission of advocates

9 (1) The Bar Council may, with the previous sanction of the High Court, make rules to regulate the admission of persons to be advocates of the High Court :

Provided that such rules shall not limit or in any way affect the power of the High Court to refuse admission to any person at its discretion

(2) In particular and to the exclusion of any other power, such rules

(b) the form and manner in which applications shall be made to the High Court for admission,

(c) the giving of notice by the High Court to the Bar Council of all such applications,

(d) the hearing by the High Court of any objections preferred on behalf of the Bar Council to the admission of any applicant, and

(e) the charging of fees payable to the Bar Council in respect of enrolment

(3) Rules made under this section shall provide that no woman shall be disqualified for admission to be an advocate by reason only of her sex

(4) Nothing in this section or in any other provision of this Act shall be deemed to limit or in any way affect the powers of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal and at Bombay to prescribe the qualifications to be possessed by persons applying to practise in those High Courts respectively in the exercise of their original jurisdiction or the powers of those High Courts to grant or refuse as they think fit any such application "or to prescribe the conditions under which such persons shall be entitled to practise or plead"

Clause (1)—Power is given to the Bar Councils to make rules for admission of person as advocates of the High Court. But the High Court has the power to refuse admission as advocate on its merits. A member of the profession does not deserve admission. 124 Ind Cas 654 = A I R 1930 1000

Misconduct.

Punishment of advocate for misconduct

10 (1) The High Court may, in the manner hereinafter provided, reprimand, suspend or remove from practice any advocate of the High Court whom it finds guilty of professional or other misconduct

(2) Upon receipt of a complaint made to it by any Court or by the Bar Council or by any other person that any such advocate has been guilty of misconduct, the High Court shall if it does not summarily reject the complaint, refer the case for inquiry either to the Bar Council or, after consultation with the Bar Council, to the Court of a District Judge (hereinafter referred to as a District Court) and may of its own motion so refer any case in which it has otherwise reason to believe that any such advocate has been so guilty.

Professional or other misconduct—It has been pointed out that the expression unprofessional conduct does not cover the whole range of cases in which it may be necessary to take disciplinary action against advocates and we have made some drafting alterations in this clause to meet this point.—Report of the Select Committee As regards professional or other misconduct, vide ss 12 and 13 of the Legal Practitioners Act 1879 (XVII of 1879) and notes thereunder. See also 131 Ind Cas 67, 126 Ind Cas 558, 112 Ind Cas 214. Advocates conduct as a party is not within the scope of the section 1932 A I J 773=A I R 1932 All 492 (S B). As regards what punishment is sufficient vide Ibid. In case of striking off advocates name from roll of advocates for misconduct, the test is to see whether such misconduct makes the advocate unworthy to remain member of honourable profession and unfit to be entrusted with responsible work of advocate. When an advocate was convicted for submitting false return of income and for setting up false defence it was held that his name should be struck off the roll. A I R 1934 Rang 33. Definite retainer or confidential instructions are necessary to make appearance for other party a misconduct. A I R 1934 Oudh 58 (S B).

Clause (2)—"Some misunderstanding appears to have arisen as to the object of providing for a reference of cases of misconduct to subordinate Courts. Such a provision is necessary as a Tribunal of the Bar Council will not in all cases be in a position to enquire satisfactorily into matters which have occurred in the mofussil. We think that the allocation of inquiries between Subordinate Courts and Bar Council must be left to the discretion of the High Court but we have provided that the High Court shall be bound to consult the Bar Council in any case before referring it to such a Court and we have further provided that Courts to which reference may be made shall be the Courts of District Judges.—Report of the Select Committee As regards when Court is entitled to dismiss petition summarily, vide 34 Bom L R 443=A I R 1932 Bom 199=138 Ind Cas 593.

11 (1) Where any case is referred for inquiry to the Bar Council under section 10, the case shall be inquired into by a Tribunal of Bar Council Committee of the Bar Council (hereinafter referred to as the Tribunal)

(2) The Tribunal shall consist of not less than three and not more than five, members of the Bar Council appointed for the purpose of the inquiry by the Chief Justice or Chief Judge of the High Court, and one of the members so appointed shall be appointed to be the president of the Tribunal.

Tribunal—By this section the Chief Justice or Chief Judge of the High Court is empowered amongst the member of the Bar Council to appoint a Tribunal of not more than 5 members and less than 3 member are to be referred to such Tribunals appointed by the Bar Council. Under section 12 sub section (3) the Advocate General must be given an opportunity of being heard before orders are passed by the High Court against an advocate. So it is submitted that the Advocate General should not be appointed a member of the Tribunal by the Court, although he is the ex officio President of the Bar Council.

12 (1) The High Court shall make rules to prescribe the procedure to be followed by Tribunals and by District Courts, respectively, in the conduct of inquiries referred under section 10.

(2) The finding of a Tribunal on an inquiry referred to the Bar C

under section 10 shall be forwarded to the High Court through the Bar Council, and the finding of a District Court on such to the High Court which shall cause a copy

(3) On receipt of the finding, the hearing of the case and shall cause notice of the day so fixed to be given to the advocate concerned and to the Bar Council and to the Advocate General, and shall afford the advocate concerned and the Bar Council and the Advocate General an opportunity of being heard. Orders are passed in the case such final orders in the case to the Tribunal through the

Bar Council or to the District Court, as the case may be, and, upon receipt of the finding after such further inquiry, deal with the case in the manner provided in sub section (3) and pass final orders thereon

(5) In passing final orders the High Court may pass such order as regards the payment of the costs of the inquiry and of the hearing in the High Court as it thinks fit

(6) The High Court may, of its own motion or on application made to it in this behalf, review any order passed under subsection (4) or sub section (5) and maintain, vary or rescind the same, as it thinks fit

(7) When any advocate is reprimanded or suspended under this Act, a record of the punishment shall be entered against his name in the roll of advocates of the High Court, and when an advocate is removed from practice his name shall forthwith be struck off the roll, and the certificate of any advocate so suspended or removed shall be recalled.

Notes 'The alterations which we have made in this clause provide, firstly that the Advocate General shall have notice of, and shall be entitled to appear at the hearing of every case before the High Court whether the inquiry has been made by a Tribunal of the Bar Council or by a District Court, and, secondly, that the High Court shall have the power to review its orders. This power will enable it to accept a belated apology, if it thinks fit and remit or reduce the punishment'—Report of the Select Committee. (4) Proceedings before a Tribunal or a District Court in any such inquiry shall be deemed to be civil proceedings for the purposes of section 132 of the Indian Evidence Act 1872 and the provisions of that section shall apply accordingly

Clause (1)—By this clause the Tribunal is invested with the powers of Civil Court so far as enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him upon oath, compelling the production of documents and issuing commissions for the examination of witnesses are concerned. # THE INDIAN BILLS OF LADING ACT, 1856.

ACT NO IX OF 1865.

RECEIVED THE G G'S ASSENT ON THE 11TH APRIL, 1856

An Act to amend the Law relating to Bills of Lading.

WHEREAS by the custom of merchants a bill of lading of goods being transferable by endorsement the property in the goods may thereby pass to the endorsee, but nevertheless all rights in respect of the contract contained in the bill of lading continue in the original shipper, or owner and it is expedient that such rights should pass with the property, and whereas it frequently happens that the goods in respect of which bills of lading purport to be signed have not been laden on board, and it is proper that such bills of lading in the hands of a bona fide holder for value should not be questioned by the master or other person signing the same on the ground or the goods not having been laden as aforesaid, It is enacted as follows —

Passed to the endorsee—The endorsement and delivery by the consignee of a bill of lading for valuable consideration to a person not proved to have taken it malafide transfers to the endorsee according to the intention of the transaction the right and property of the consignee in the goods freed from any right of the consignee as to the goods in transitu Ickberron v. Mason 5 T R 683 6 East 20

1 Every consignee of goods named in a bill of lading and every endorsee of a bill of lading to whom the property in the goods therein mentioned shall pass upon or by reason of such consignment or endorsement, shall have transferred to and vested in him all rights of suit and be subject to the same liabilities in respect of such goods as if the contract contained in the bill of lading had been made with himself

2 Nothing herein contained shall prejudice or affect any right of stoppage in transitu, or any right to claim freight against the original shipper or owner, or any liability of the consignee or endorsee by reason or in consequence of his being such consignee or endorsee or of his receipt of the goods by reason or in consequence of such consignment or endorsement

Notes— There were numerous decisions both in England and America to the effect that when goods are consigned by the vendor to the vendee under bills of

3 Every bill of lading in the hands of a consignee or endorsee for valuable consideration, representing goods to have been shipped on board a vessel, shall be conclusive evidence of such shipment as against the master or other person signing the same, notwithstanding that such goods or some part thereof may not have been so shipped, unless such holder of the bill of lading shall have had actual notice at the time of receiving the same that the goods had not in fact been laden on board ;

Provided that the master or other person so signing may exonerate himself in respect of such misrepresentation, by shewing that it was caused without any default on his part, and wholly by the fraud of the shipper, or of the holder or some person under whom the holder claims

Notes—This section of the Bills of Lading Act is limited to the master or the persons signing the bills In the absence of any proof that the bills of lading were granted under a misrepresentation without any default on the part of the person signing them, and wholly due to the fault of the shipper or the holder of such bills of lading, the particular marks as shown in the respective bills of lading must be held to have been put on the board Pohuna v The Karachi Port Trust, 18 S L R 105 = A I R 1925 Sind 221

THE CARRIERS ACT 1865.

ACT NO III OF 1865.

RECEIVED THE G G 'S ASS'NT ON THE 14TH FEBRUARY, 1865

An Act relating to the rights and liabilities of Common Carriers

common carrier does not cease to be so if he enters into special contract lawfully limiting his liability 31 Ind Cas 474

Short title

1 This Act may be cited as "The Carriers Act, 1865."

Interpretation clause

2 In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Common carrier" denotes a person, other than the Government, engaged in the business of transporting for hire property from place to place, by land or inland navigation, for all persons indiscriminately

"Person" includes any association or body of persons, whether incorporated or not :—

Carriers not to be liable for loss of certain goods above 100 rupees in value unless delivered as such delivered to him to be carried exceeding in value one hundred rupees and of the description contained in the schedule to this Act unless the person delivering such property to be carried, or some person duly authorized in that behalf, shall have expressly declared, to such carrier or his agent, the value and description thereof

Notes—The earlier sections extend to India the principles embodied in the Objects and Reasons exemption clauses to risks of a common carrier in the absence of any prohibition against exempting a carrier from loss arising from negligence or criminal acts there is perhaps an even stronger reason for adopting this canon of construction at any rate, within the limits implied by this prohibition 12 C W N 226, see also Price v Union (1903) 1 K B 750 S C (1904) 1 K B 412, James v Nelson (1907) 1 K B 769 But the non scheduled articles is not governed by the rule 59 C 472=36 C W N 129=A I R 1932 Cal 344=138 Ind Cas 89

4 Every such carrier may require payment for the risk undertaken

For carrying such property, payment may be required at fixed rates in carrying property exceeding in value one hundred rupees and of the description aforesaid, at such rate of charge as he may fix

Provided that, to entitle such carrier to payment at a rate higher than his ordinary rate of charge he shall have caused to be exhibited in the place where he carries on the business of receiving property to be carried notice of the higher rate of charge required, printed or written in English and in the vernacular language of the country wherein he carries on such business

Object—It is unreasonable to expect a carrier to carry goods worth a few rupees and jewels possibly worth lacs for the same remuneration the negligence of the servants in the one case may cause him only a trifling loss, while in the other case it might be his ruin. It is only right therefore that he should be entitled to demand higher rates for certain goods. 32 M 122. Both the description and the value must be given. 5 M 208, 19 B 192. 5 In case of the loss or damage to property exceeding in value one hundred rupees and of the description aforesaid, delivered to such carrier to be carried, when the value and description thereof shall have been declared and payment shall have been required in manner provided for by this Act, the person entitled to recover in respect of such loss or damage shall also be entitled to recover any money actually paid to such carrier in consideration of such risk as aforesaid.

Notes—The plaintiff delivered a box to the defendant Railway Company for carriage to a particular destination. At the time of booking the box, the plaintiff made a representation to the officer of the Company that the box contained articles of the value of about Rs 1,000 and wished that special care should be taken to prevent the box or its contents from being injured by rain. He was asked the nature of the contents and he showed a list of the contents. The officer of the Company, however, failed to ask the plaintiff to pay increased rate of charges for the risk. Held that the declaration made by the plaintiff was a sufficient declaration. 3 see also 19 B 165. The Steamer Company delivered its luggage as the Act makes no and goods or merchandise. 17 C W N 970.

6 The liability of any common carrier for the loss of or damage to any property delivered to him to be carried, not being of the description contained in the schedule to this Act, shall not be deemed to be limited or affected by any public notice, but any such carrier, not being the owner of a railroad or tramroad constructed under the provisions of Act XXII of 1863* may, by special contract, signed by the owner of such property so delivered as last aforesaid, or by some person duly authorized in that behalf by such owner, limit his liability in respect of the same.

Notes—The effect of sections 6 and 8 is that the liability of a common carrier for the loss of or damage to any property delivered to him to be carried, not being of the description contained in the schedule may be limited by the owner, save when such loss shall have resulted from a criminal act of the carrier or any of his servants. In England a carrier can stipulate that he shall exercise diligence. 19 C W N 905. P C. In India a carrier is not liable in the absence of special contract. When there is special contract a carrier is not liable to limit the liability of "carrier" is that the nature of the contract entered into must either have limitation of liability under the Act made expressly and in writing or the fact must be such that the contractor was engaging in a different type of business from that of a common carrier. 28 C W N 302.

7. The liability of the owner of any railroad or tramroad constructed under the provisions of the said Act, XXII of 1863* for the loss of or damage to any property delivered to him to be carried, not being of the description contained in the schedule to this Act, shall not be deemed to be limited or affected by any special contract, but the owner of such railroad or tramroad shall be liable for the loss of or damage to property delivered to him to be

Notes—There is no obligation on a Railway Company to carry a passenger safely. They are only legally bound to carry him with reasonable care and diligence 28 C 401 = 5 C W N 449 P C. In the case of continuous carriers the authorities establish that when the goods have to be carried with the aid of different transport agencies in order to arrive at the destination to which they are booked, the carrier with whom the contract is made at one end is, in the absence of any contract limiting his liability to his own transport system, liable for the loss or destruction on portions beyond his own system or in consequence of acts or default of persons other than his own servants 45 Ind C 18 485

S Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, every common carrier shall be liable to the owner for loss of or damage to any property delivered to such carrier to be carried, where such loss or damage shall have arisen from the criminal act of the carrier or any of his agents or servants and shall also be liable to the owner for loss or damage to any such property, other than property the declaration of which has arisen

Notes—A carrier is liable for the criminal act of his servant or agent even where there is no declaration as regards value or higher charge paid 41 C 83, 34 C 419. Savings 9 No petition under the foregoing provisions of this Act in relation to any trust shall be entertained in any of the following circumstances namely—

- (a) if a suit instituted in accordance with the provisions of section 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, is pending in respect of the trust in question,
- (b) if the trust property is vested in the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments, the Administrator General, the Official Trustee, or any Society registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860; or
- (c) if a scheme for the administration of the trust property has been settled or approved by any Court of competent jurisdiction, or by any other authority acting under the provisions of any enactment.

Notes—This section lays down that no petition is entertainable by the Court in the circumstances mentioned below. When a suit has already been instituted under section 92 of the Civil Procedure Code, the direction of that Court is binding.

10 (1) In any suit instituted under section 14 of the Religious Endowments Act, 1863 or under section 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, the Court trying such suit may if, on application of the plaintiff and after hearing the defendant and making such inquiry as it thinks fit, it is satisfied that such an order is necessary in the public interest, direct the defendant either to furnish security for any expenditure incurred, or likely to be incurred, by the plaintiff in instituting and maintaining such suit, or to deposit from any money in his hands as trustee of the trust to which the suit relates such sum as such Court considers sufficient to meet such expenditure in whole or in part.

(2) When any money has been deposited in accordance with an order made under sub section (1), the Court may make over to the plaintiff the whole or any part of such sum for the conduct of the suit. Before making over any sum to the plaintiff, the Court shall take security from the plaintiff for the refund of the same in the event of such refund being subsequently ordered by the Court.

Notes—This section supplements section 14 of the Religious Endowments Act, 1863 and section 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. No provision is made in those Acts as regards previous deposit of costs by the trustees. Under this section the Court can ask the defendant either to furnish security or to deposit costs of the plaintiff, in a fit case and for public interest. This section is enacted in order to encourage suits under section 14 of the Religious Endowments Act (XX of 1863) and section 92 of the Civil Procedure Code. The option of furnishing security of making a deposit rests with the defendant. The Court can order that he may do one of these two things but it cannot specify which he is to do. Under this section a defendant can be directed to furnish security or to pay a sum of money out of the money in his hands as trustee. He cannot be required to pay any money out of his own pocket. The security is for expenditure already incurred or likely to be incurred. 69 Ind Cas 658.

Provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, relating to—

- (a) the proof of facts by affidavit,
- (b) the enforcing of the attendance of any person and his examination on oath,
- (c) the enforcing of the production of documents, and
- (d) the issuing of commissions, shall so far as they are applicable, apply to the execution of decrees and orders under this Act.

Scope—This section empowers a Court to prove any fact by affidavit, to summon any witness and to administer an oath to him. The Court is also empowered to enforce the production of any documents and to issue commissions to any witnesses. The procedure of serving a summons under C P Code is to be adopted in serving a notice under this Act. An order under this Act is to be executed like a decree of the Civil Procedure Code But an order under this Act is not a decree under the Civil Procedure Code

SUITS IN GENERAL.

JURISDICTION OF THE COURTS AND Res Judicata.

9. [S 11] The Courts shall (subject to the provisions herein contained) have jurisdiction to try all suits of a civil nature excepting suits of which their cognizance is either expressly or impliedly barred

Explanation.—A suit in which the right to property or to an office is contested is a suit of a civil nature, notwithstanding that such right may depend entirely on the decision of questions as to religious rites or ceremonies

Scope.—The Scope of the section is very vast, including even what are known as rent suits or suits cognizable by the Revenue Courts, but for the circumstances that such suits, though civil in their nature, are expressly excluded from the jurisdiction of Civil Courts, by dint of some Special Statutes 12 A 409 (F B.) In such cases, the Civil Courts have no jurisdiction over the questions of religion or dispute between the parties on prima facie to have jurisdiction. called the plea of former judgment. And so the application of the rule by the Courts of India should be influenced by no technical considerations of form, but by matter of substance within the limits allowed by law. 43 I A 91=43 C 694=20 C W N 738 (744).

The following rule was laid down by Sir William De Grey C J in the Dutchess of Kingston's case, 20 How St Tr 355 (357). "As a general principle, a transaction between two parties, in a judicial proceeding ought not to be binding upon a third, for it would be unjust to bind any person who could not be admitted to make a defence or to examine witnesses, or to appeal from a judgment he might think erroneous, and therefore the depositions of witnesses in another cause in proof of a fact the verdict of a jury in finding the fact, and the judgment of the Court upon the facts found, although evidence against the parties, and all claiming under them, are not in general, to be used to the prejudice of strangers. From the variety of cases relative to judgments being given in evidence in civil suits these two deductions seem to follow as generally true, first that the judgment of a Court of concurrent jurisdiction directly upon this point is a plea a bar, or is evidence conclusive, between the same parties, upon the same matter, directly in question in another Court, secondly, that the judgment of a Court of exclusive jurisdiction, directly upon the point, is in like manner conclusive upon the same matter, between the same parties coming incidentally in question in another Court for a different purpose. But neither the judgment of a concurrent or exclusive jurisdiction is evidence of any matter incidentally cognizable nor of any matter to be inferred by argument from the judgment. If said Lord Kenyon C J in Great Head v Bramley 7 T R 456 an action be brought and the merits of the question be discussed between the parties and a final judgment obtained by either the parties are concluded and cannot canvass the same question again in another action, although perhaps some objection or argument might have been urged upon the first trial, which would have led to a different judgment." The same learned judge said in Mairrott v Hampton 7 T R 269 "If this action could be maintained I knew not what cause of action could ever be at rest. After recovering by process, of law there must be an end of litigation otherwise there would be no security for any person."

But if the relief given to the plaintiff does not require or involve a decision of any case between co-defendants, the co-defendants will not be bound as between each other by any proceeding which may be necessary only to the decree the plaintiff obtains. Three conditions are necessary for the applicability of the rule of res judicata between co-defendants: (1) there must be a conflict of interest between the defendants concerned, (2) it must be necessary to decide this conflict in order to give the plaintiff the relief he claims, and (3) the question between the defendant must have been finally decided. Per Fort Russell of Killoren in 59 I A 247=10 Rang 322=36 C W N 7-6=34 Bom L R 1040=1932 A L J 735=63 M L J 64=1 I R 1932 P C 161=A L R 1932 P C 260 (P C), A I R 1933 Lah 274=34 P L R 313=14 Lah 31 A I R 1933 Pat 146, see also 59 C 636=35 C W N 1203=A I R 1932 Cal

Scope—Under s 46 C P Code an attachment under precept is not invalidated by the fact that the order extending the statutory period of two months during which the attachment will remain in force is passed after the expiry of the said period, provided that the application for extension of time is put in before the expiry of the said two months. #### QUESTIONS TO BE DETERMINED BY COURT EXECUTING DECREE

[47 S. 224] (1) All questions arising between the parties to the suit

Questions to be determined in which the decree was passed, or their representatives and relating to the execution, discharge or satisfaction of the decree, shall be determined by the Court executing the decree and not by a separate suit.

(2) The Court may, subject to any objection as to limitation or jurisdiction, treat a proceeding under this section as a suit or a suit as a proceeding and may, if necessary, order payment of any additional court fee.

(3) Where a question arises as to whether any person is or is not the representative of a party such question shall, for the purposes of this section, be determined by the Court.

Explanation—For the purposes of this section, a plaintiff whose suit has been dismissed and a defendant against whom a suit has been dismissed, are parties to the suit.

80 [S 424] No suit shall be instituted against the Secretary of State for India in Council, or against a public officer in respect of any act purporting to be done by such public officer in his official capacity, until the expiration of two months next after notice in writing has been, in the case of Secretary of State in Council, delivered to, or left at the office of, a Secretary to the Local Government or the Collector of the district, and, in the case of a public officer, delivered to him or left at his office, stating the cause of action, the name, description and place of residence of the plaintiff and the relief which he claims, and the plaint shall contain a statement that such notice has been so delivered or left Scope—The object of not requiring by this section to inform Government or the public officers concerned generally of the nature of the suit which is intended to be filed against them. The notice must not be too strict or too narrowly construed. It must not be construed as if it were pleadings and need not set out all the details and facts of the case which the plaintiff intends to prove. It must be considered sufficient if it substantially fulfils its object of informing the parties concerned generally of the nature of the suit intended to be filed. Bom L R 30 = 27 B 189, 24 M 279, 13 C L R 195. The object of this section is to afford opportunity to the Secretary of State or public servant time and opportunity to reconsider his legal alleged cause of action and of making out litigation 40 B 392 = 18 Bom L J 148 25 C 244, 24 M 279.

Only this distinction is left between the two classes of suits that whereas in the absence of a notice under s 80 the Secretary of State for India in Council cannot be made a defendant in a suit, no matter what its character may be a public officer may without such a notice be a defendant in a suit in which no act of his is in question but he is made a party for some reason or other. The restrictive words in the section were unnecessary and would be inappropriate in the case of Secretary of State for India in Council firstly because the Secretary of State for India in Council is a statutory body which has no capacity but an official one and secondly because he is often responsible for the acts of other public bodies and officers 59 C 961 = 55 C L J 8 = 138 Ind Cas 4 = A I R 1932 Cal 275 = A L R 19 2 Cal 1037. “(3) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to alter or otherwise affect any provision of the letters patents of any High Court”*

Scope—“This section with certain variations reproduces section 575 of the former code. But there is difference between the two codes which make a very important difference for the purposes of a reference such as that now before me. Under the old Code it is a point of law that is to be heard by one or more of the other Judges. The result is that whereas under the old Code I could have disposed of this appeal on a reference under the present Code I cannot. The intention of section 98 is that the Judges hearing the appeal should come to a complete decision with the reservation on the point of law on which they differ and they should by their judgments make it clear that if the point of law is decided in one way it will have a certain final result and if it decided in another way it will have another and a different final result. Per Jenkins C J in 18 C W N 33 (36), see also 39 C 353=14 C I J 532. A review proceeding commences ordinarily with an ex parte application. The Court then may grant a rule calling for the appearance of the parties, and the hearing of this may involve to some extent an investigation into the merits. If the rule is discharged then the case ends. If on the other hand the rule is made absolute, then the third stage is reached, the case is reheard on the merits and may result in a repetition of the former decree or in some variation of it. Though in one case the rule is discharged or on the re-hearing the decree is varied, there is a material difference, for, in the latter case there is a fresh decree, in the former case the case is reheard on the old decree 35 M 871=139 which has been decided by any court subordinate to such High Court and in which no

(a) to have exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law, or

Scope — The 115th section of the Civil Procedure Code enables the High Court, in a case in which no appeal lies, to call for the record of any case if the Court by the same or under any other enactment hereby repealed shall, so far as they are consistent with this Code, have the same force and effect as if they had been respectively published, made, appointed, filed, prescribed, framed and conferred under this Code and by the authority empowered thereby in such behalf

Scope—Section 157 C P Code is an enabling and not a repealing section. The words "so far as they are inconsistent with this Code" which occur in this section do not impliedly repeal rules framed under s 26 C P Code of 1882 24 M L J 637=20 Ind Cas 775 (F B). The term "rules made" means rules made by the proper authority having jurisdiction. Rules under the old Code which were then ultra vires are not valid because they could be made under the new Code 29 M L J 63-31 Ind Cas 924

153 [S 3 second para] In every enactment or notification passed or issued before the commencement of this Code in which reference is made to or to any Chapter or section of Act VIII of 1859 or any Code of Civil Procedure or any Act amending the same or any other enactment hereby repealed, such reference shall, so far as may be practicable, be taken to be made to this code or to its corresponding Part, Order, section or rule

Scope—Alterations in procedure are always retrospective unless there be some good reasons against it 7 Ind Cas 11. In the absence of provisions to the contrary the expired or the repealed Act is considered to have never been in existence except as to matters and transactions past and closed Suttees v Ellison, 9 B & C 752 Churchill v Crease, 5 Bng 177. But a repeal does not affect any right privilege obligation, or liability acquired accrued or incurred under any enactment so repealed Lewis v Hughes (1916) 1 K B 813 C A

157. [S 3 second sentence] Notifications published, declarations and rules made, places appointed, agreements filed, scales prescribed, forms framed, appointments made and powers conferred under Continuance of order under repealed enactments Act VIII of 1859 or under any Code of Civil Procedure or any Act amending

the same or under any other enactment hereby repealed shall, so far as they are consistent with this Code, have the same force and effect as if they had been respectively published, made, appointed, filed, prescribed, framed and conferred under this Code and by the authority empowered thereby in such behalf

Scope—Sect on 157 C P Code is an enabling and not a repealing section. The words 'so far as they are consistent with this Code' which occur in this section do not impliedly repeal rules framed under s 269 C P Code of 1882 24 M L J 637=20 Ind Cas 775 (F B). The term 'rules made' means rules made by the proper authority having jurisdiction. 153 [S 3 second para] In every enactment or notification passed or issued before the commencement of this Code in which reference is made to or to any Chapter or section of Act VIII of 1859 or any Code of Civil Procedure or any Act amending the same or any other enactment hereby repealed, such reference shall, so far as may be practicable, be taken to be made to this code or to its corresponding Part, Order, section or rule

Scope—Alterations in procedure are always retrospective unless there be some good reasons against it 7 Ind Cas 11. In the absence of provisions to the contrary the expired or the repealed Act is considered to have never been in existence except as to matters and transactions past and closed Sustees v Ellison, 9 B & C 752 Churchill v Crease 5 Bing 177. Scope—This rule in the main is based upon order XVI rule 1 of the Supreme Court Practice and s 26 of the old code. According to Lord Justice Bowen it is not the intention of the rule to allow writs to be issued under which any number of plaintiffs might join any number of causes of action, or that a writ should be like an omnibus travelling on a certain route into which any number of persons may get as passengers for the journey (1893) 2 Q B 422. This rule relates only to joinder of parties on the same causes of action (1834) A C 491, (1899) 1 Q B 840, but see (1907) 1 K B 264, 274, per Cosens Hardy L.J. "Rule 1 order 1, of Act V of 1908, which brings the Indian practice into line with English rule, provides as follows. It seems to their lordships that under this rule the contingent reversioners may be joined as plaintiffs in the presumptive reversioner's suit" Per Amir Ali J in 19 C W N 641 P C = 38 M 406 = 17 Bom L R 468. According to recent decision in England this rule relates to joinder of causes of action as well (1907) 1 K B 264 (274), (1910) 2 K B 354 (361). So the joinder of plaintiffs is allowed in cases where (1) the right to relief claimed by them arises in each of their cases out of the same transaction or series of of transactions and where (2) some common question of law or fact arises. Conditions must be complied with, Joinder of several plaintiffs. Per 52), Oxford and Cambridge

however, it seems necessary that the whole of a transaction should be involved in each of the cause of action joined (1898) arrears of maintenance by two widows is by suit and as such each relief arises out of the

(2) Where causes of action are united, the jurisdiction of the Court as regards the suit shall depend on the amount or value of the aggregate subject matters at the date of instituting the suit.

Scope—Order 1, rule 1 lays down rules as regard joinder of plaintiffs and order 1 rule 3 that of defendants. This rule lays down rules as regards joinder of causes of action. This rule is to be read subject to rules 4 and 5 of the order. This rule applies to cases where there are only one plaintiff, and one defendant and several causes of action and also to cases where the plaintiffs and defendants, though consisting of two or more individuals may be considered as a unit with reference to all the different causes of action. 2 C L J 602 In Umabai v Bhan Balwant, 34 B 358 at P 367 D: or J observed, In Narsingh Das v Mungil Dubey, 5 A 163 a full Bench of that court held that a plaint had been properly rejected because the suit was open to the objection that different causes of action against different defendants separately had been joined in the same suit. In the course of the judgment it is said at p 171 The plaintiff has united different causes of action in one suit against different defendants, who are not jointly liable in respect of each and all of such causes of action—a mode of proceeding that the law does or causes of action against several defendants is the same. As I read the judgment it lays down that the meaning of the word jointly in the old section and therefore in this Rule, is that all the defendants are jointly interested in the cause of action of each and all of the cause of action in the same suit. (See al Beyfus) The result of the authorities is that in one action unite several causes of action and that all such defendants are of action and that the conditions of several causes of action against all have a joint interest in the main question raised by the litigation and that cause of action joined in one suit against several defendants must be causes of action. 7 [R S O 20, r 6] Every plaintiff shall state specifically the relief which the plaintiff claims either simply or in the alternative, and it shall not be necessary to ask for general or other relief which may always be given as the Court may think just to the same extent as if it had been asked for. And the same rule shall apply to any relief claimed by the defendant in his written statement.

Scope—The same cause of action can give rise to different reliefs. A plaintiff may claim them, separately, or collectively.
